

Rules for the use of Internet and electronic resources in SVK PK

Internet and electronic resources are to be used in accordance with the general instructions stated in Article 10 of Rules for the Use of Computer Technology, SVK PK Director's Guidelines No. 1/2006, Ref. No. 398/2006 – Library Regulations.

- Free access to the Internet via secure connection is available for registered SVK PK users with valid membership cards or with membership cards valid for a single day (henceforth known as a single-use membership cards, see par. 8 Library Regulations).
- Those who wish to have free access to the Internet must present their valid library membership card or single-use membership card on entering the study room.
- The right to free Internet access is given to individuals with a valid library membership card or single-use membership card and this right is non-transferable.
- The right to free access to the Internet is given preferentially and with no time limit to registered SVK PK users who are using electronic resources (research services).
- The basic time limit for free Internet access is 30 minutes, it is possible to extend this by another 30 minutes (i.e. + 30min) only if there is a free computer.
- The decision to extend Internet access is within the competence of the study room staff.
- If there are many applicants for free Internet access, the order of applicants is determined by study room staff.
- Printing pages and editing text both incur fines – see the current SVK PK pricelist.

If the following regulations are not observed, the library may limit a user's access to library services.
